

Project and Portfolio Management software for upstream energy companies

Delivering new efficiencies and value throughout the project maturation process

The upstream energy sector relies on an evidence-based approach to realizing value. However you track exploration and delivery projects, iRIS PPM provides the tools to quantify risks and manage uncertainties:

- Achieving better visibility of all your project data and resources
- Providing a single source of truth for reliable, data-driven decisions
- Improving risk and uncertainty recognition and mitigation
- Providing a virtual twin of your organisation's existing decision-making process
- Driving operational efficiencies through adherence to best practices
- Establishing a home for all your current and historical data

iRIS PPM has been created specifically for organizations involved in the assessment or development of commercial upstream energy projects.

A single source-of-truth for managing all your energy resources

Visibility

Powerful dashboards provide better visibility and transparency of all your projects and resources, helping you interrogate, monitor, and manage data in the way that suits your organization.

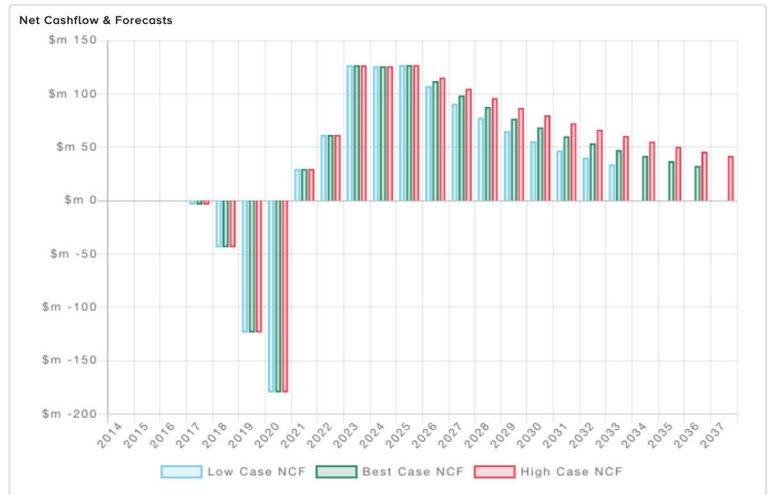

Enhanced tracking and reporting tools facilitate the management of dependencies across programs and portfolios in real-time.

Integration

At the highest level, the system provides a single source of truth for reliable, fact-based and data-driven decision making.

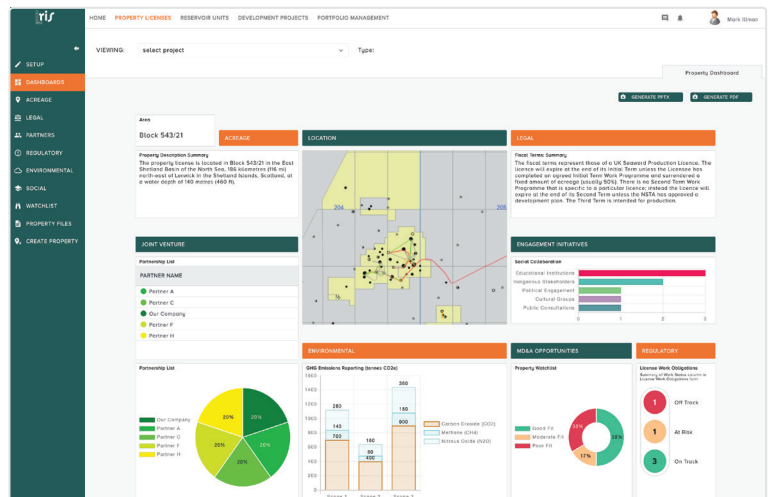

Powerful filters provide the ability to apply a multiple lens approach to your data, helping to drive individual and workstream accountability.

Risk Management

The platform has built in controls for project governance and uses industry standard practices for quantifying risks and managing uncertainties across:

- Properties
- Energy Sources
- Development projects

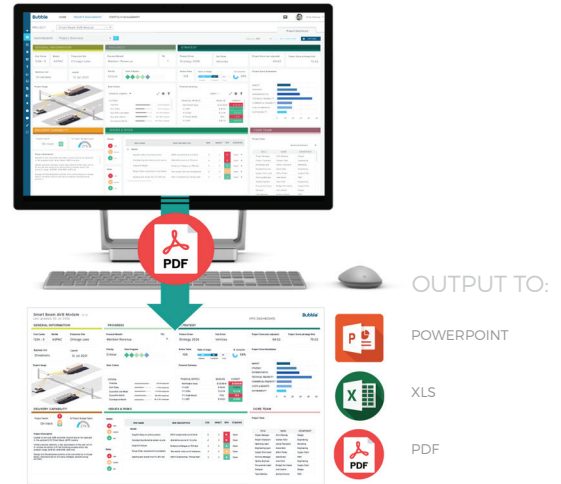

A single source-of-truth for managing all your energy resources

⌚ Efficiencies

Using one tool to centrally manage all your maturation opportunities results in significant operational efficiencies.

Efficiencies are achieved through an integrated approach to:

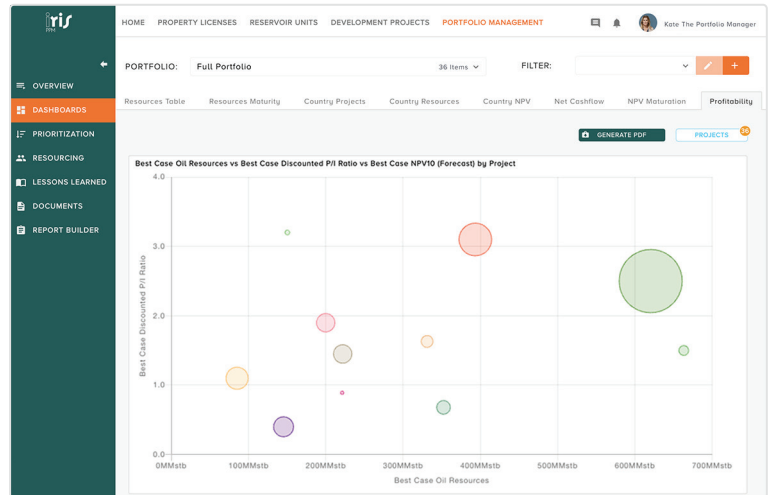

- Prioritization of critical activities
- Making consistent decisions early
- Organizing all your workstreams
- Streamlined reporting (1-Click)

📊 Data & Metrics

The iRIS PPM platform provides a home for all your current and historical data, ensuring you retain valuable organizational knowledge for the duration of projects regardless of how long they take to mature or how many people are involved.

- Track regulatory conformance
- Track key metrics/trends over time
- Consolidate lessons across projects
